Notable features:

Numbers 834-840 are original wood shop fronts and constitute a typical row of the early '1840's. Numbers 840 and 844 are interesting houses with large windows at the second floor, and an especially nice front at 844 with attic windows and cast iron window cornices, the same as ones on several houses on the north side of 1200 block W. Lexington Street. Number 846 is a house front and has iron work.

Environmental context:

The row is a mixture of dwellings and shops. Many buildings are vacant: 834, 838, 840, 842, 844, but the row is unbroken by demolition. (See comments for 818-826½.) The light industry and truck yard across the street don't enhance these buildings, but they can stand on their own.
